Brief Description	Just One Line (JOL) is a Gamebook-like – Role-playing indie videogame set in a funny and colorful fantasy world. Create your hero choosing from a list of races and backgrounds and embark on a variety of quests with heavy focus on choices and consequences. Your character will progress by increasing his/her renown and relations with the factions of the kingdom, unlocking new races and backgrounds for your next playthroughs.
Key Features	• Choices matter: a lot of games say so, but we think none truly mean it. All our quests are linked together and have different branches according to your characters' race, background, attributes and choices made in previous quests. (more...) • Your character, your story: build your character as you wish. Start by choosing a race and background, go ahead with some aesthetic customization and finally shape him into a valorous hero or a ruthless villain. Morality and honor will change according to your choices. (more...) • Will you be the best? When you resign your character you can compete with other players in the leaderboards to be the most renowned hero of the kingdom. (more...) • All about immersion: we feature a unique set of locations in fancy 3D graphics and a mesmerizing OST to aid your imagination when embarking on epic quests. • Innovative yet conservative: the concept of our game is a breath of fresh air! However, you could expect everything a role-playing gamer has come to know: races, classes, skills, magic, equipment such as powerful weapons, unique armors and ancient artifacts.
